Vsebina:

Content (Syllabus outline):

V okviru predmeta se bo podrobneje obravnavalo vprašanje pojma mednarodnega spora, obveznost mirnega reševanja sporov ter vrste reševanja mednarodnih sporov, tako preko pravil mednarodnega prava, prakse držav kot tudi odločanja mednarodnih sodišč glede teh vprašanj.

Nadalje bodo študenti poglobljeno seznanjeni s posameznimi primeri reševanja mednarodnih sporov, glede na različne vrste (diplomatska / pravna sredstva). Spoznali bodo ključne razlike, posebnosti in prednosti posameznih vrst reševanja mednarodnih sporov.

Obravnavale se bodo tudi specifike postopkov pred različnimi mednarodnimi sodišči. Posebna pozornost bo namenjena postopkom pred Meddržavnim sodiščem v Haagu, ITLOS sodišču v Hamburgu ter Stalnim arbitražnim sodiščem, Obravnavali se bodo konkretni mednarodni spori Slovenije, in sicer glede meje, trgovinski in investicijski spori ter spor glede deviznih varčevalcev LB.

S sodelovanjem študentov bomo izbrali nekaj najbolj aktualnih primerov mednarodnih sporov (trgovinski spor ZDA/Kitajska, agresija na Ukrajino, tožbe zoper Izrael) in jih bolj podrobno obravnavali.

Predvidena je celovita obravnava vprašanja učinkovitosti sredstev mirnega reševanja sporov v kontekstu novih geopolitičnih realnosti, politizacije sodnih postopkov ter erozije sistema predvsem zaradi nesodelovanja določenih držav v sodnih postopkih ter pri neizvrševanja sodnih odločb.

Na magistrski ravni se predvideva razprava o pomenu vladavine prava na mednarodni ravni ter zaščite obstoječega mednarodnega reda, temelječega na mednarodnem pravu.

The course will examine in more detail the concept of international dispute, the obligation to settle disputes peacefully, and the types of international dispute settlement, both through the rules of international law, state practice and the decisions of international courts on these issues.

Furthermore, students will be introduced in depth to specific examples of international dispute settlement, according to the different types (diplomatic/legal remedies). They will learn about the key differences, specificities and advantages of each type of international dispute settlement.

The specificities of the procedures before the different international tribunals will also be discussed. Particular attention will be paid to proceedings before the International Court of Justice in The Hague, the ITLOS Court in Hamburg and the Permanent Court of Arbitration, Specific international disputes of Slovenia will be addressed, namely border, trade and investment disputes and the LB foreign exchange savers dispute.

With the participation of students, we will select some of the most topical cases of international disputes (US/China trade dispute, aggression against Ukraine, lawsuits against Israel) and discuss them in more detail.

A comprehensive discussion of the effectiveness of peaceful means of dispute resolution in the context of new geopolitical realities, the politicization of court proceedings and the erosion of the system, mainly due to the non-cooperation of certain states in court proceedings and in the non-enforcement of court decisions, is foreseen.

At Master's level, it is envisaged to discuss the importance of the rule of law at international level and the protection of the existing international rules based order.
