Article 51
(adoption and accreditation of study programmes)

Study programmes to obtain education and study programmes for additional training are adopted by the Senate of the university on a proposal of the Senate of the faculty and in agreement with the Governing Board of the faculty.

Publicly valid higher education is obtained through study programmes which are adopted by the Senate of the university. The university must accredit the study programmes at the Slovenian Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education (SQAA).

Article 52 (study programmes)

The faculty implements study programmes for the acquisition of education as undergraduate and postgraduate studies, which are further divided into three cycles:

The study programmes are announced by the time the call for enrolment is published at the latest.

Article 55 (joint study programmes)

The faculty can implement study programmes in collaboration with equivalent level institutes at home or abroad through a contract or as part of an agreement (joint study programmes).

Whoever fulfils all obligations of the joint study programme to obtain education, receives a joint diploma which is a public document. Article 60
(academic year)

The academic year lasts from 1 October to 30 September. The faculty performs organised academic processes throughout the academic year.

Three exam periods are ensured; the first following the conclusion of the first semester, the second following the conclusion of the second semester and the third at the end of the academic year.

The academic calendar for the next academic year is adopted by the Senate of the university no later than by the end of May of the current academic year. The faculty can adapt the academic calendar based on the specificity of pedagogical process but the length must remain unchanged.

Article 61
(scope of lectures)

Undergraduate study programmes comprise from 20 to 30 hours of lectures, seminars and tutorials per week and 30 weeks per year. If a study programme contains practical training, the total workload of a student cannot exceed 40 hours per week and 42 weeks per year.

Organisation and timing of lectures, seminars and tutorials can be adapted within a study programme (part-time study).

If only a smaller number of candidates register for an individual course, the studies can be performed in the form of individual consultations. The Governing Board of the faculty decides on this issue.

5.3. STUDY

Studying at a distance is a form of part time study as well.

Article 64 (equivalence of full time and part time study)

Part time study must be equivalent to full time study in terms of content and complexity.

A part time student may transfer from part time to full time study. A full time student may transfer from full time to part time study. The conditions and procedure are specified in more detail in the Study Regulations.

Article 65 (parallel studies)

Parallel studies are studies in separate study programmes. A student who successfully fulfils the obligations of all study programmes receives separate diplomas from each parallel study programme.

A student can enrol into another parallel study programme if they meet the requirements for enrolment.

The faculty determines the requirements for parallel studies with its rules as well as the criteria for selection in the event that there is an enrolment limitation for parallel studies.

Article 66 (individual studies)

Individual studies are a form of studies where the organised pedagogical work (lectures, tutorials, seminars) is replaced with individual consultations.

Article 67 (transfers between study programmes)

The transfer between study programmes is the enrolment in second or higher year of the higher education study programme in the case of:

- the cessation of studies at one study programme and the continuation of studies at another study programme at the same cycle,
- the enrolment of a higher education graduate in a new study programme at the same cycle,
- the enrolment of a higher vocational education graduate in the second year of a higher education study programme at the first-cycle.

A candidate must meet the requirements for enrolment in the first year of the study programme.

Transfers between study programmes are possible under the conditions regulated by the valid rules for transfers between study programmes, and in accordance with the criteria determined by the study programmes.

A candidate submits a request to transfer between study programmes based on the call for enrolment that determines the deadlines and the procedure.

The Academic Committee decides on the request from the previous paragraph.

All fulfilled and recognised study obligations for the first and the second study programme are evident in Diploma Supplement.

5.4. TEACHING LANGUAGE

Article 68
(teaching language)

Article 69
(language of diploma, master and doctoral theses)

Diploma, master and doctoral theses are to be written in the Slovenian language.

Exceptionally, the candidate can write their diploma, master or doctoral thesis in a foreign language if it applies to a study programme that is performed in a foreign language or if justified reasons have been submitted (a foreign mentor or committee member, a possibility of publication as a book at foreign publishers, etc.).

A diploma, master or doctoral thesis written in a foreign language can be submitted only together with an extensive summary in the Slovenian language. The summary must include suitable Slovenian specialist terminology from the specific scientific field.

The conditions and procedure of topic registration, preparation and submission as well as defence of the diploma, master or doctoral theses are regulated in more detail in the Rules on Studies.

5.5. EXAMINATIONS

Article 70
(types of examinations)

The student's success with regard to their fulfilment of obligations of a study programme is established by assessments and evaluations of knowledge. The types of examinations are exams, partial exams, and other types determined by the study programme.

A method of conducting exams, examination periods, conditions of attempting examinations, and other issues related to examinations are determined in the Rules on Studies.

Article 71

(recognition of examinations and other study obligations completed at other higher education institutes)

A student who has completed certain examinations and other study obligations in other study or educational programme (in Slovenia or abroad) prior to enrolling at the faculty, can request for the recognition of the completed examinations and other study obligations as part of the programme at the faculty where they are enrolled.

The Rules on Studies regulates the criteria and procedure of recognition in more detail.

5.6. ADVANCEMENT INTO A HIGHER YEAR AND REPEAT ENROLMENT

Article 72
(advancement into a higher year)

To advance in a higher year, a student must complete all their obligations determined by the particular study programme for the advancement into a higher year by the end of the academic year. The conditions for the advancement into a higher year and for conditional enrolment are determined by the Rules on Studies which regulate the enrolment in undergraduate and postgraduate studies.

Article 73
(repeat enrolment)

A student who has not completed all their obligations determined by the study programme for the enrolment into a higher year may repeat a year only once during their time at the faculty if they have so far not repeated a year or changed their study programme or course due to the unfulfillment of obligations in their previous course or study programme.

5.7. FASTER ADVANCEMENT

Article 74
(conditions and procedure for faster advancement)

When a student demonstrates above-average study results, it is possible for them to advance faster if this is possible with regard to the study process.

A student is permitted to advance faster if they have completed all their study obligations and examinations of subjects from lower years with above-average results and obtained an average of at least eight.

The decision on faster advancement is made by the Senate on the basis of the candidate's request and the reasoned opinion of the Academic Committee. The decision on the method of advancing faster is also determined.

5.8. CONTINUATION OF STUDIES FOLLOWING SUSPENSION

Article 75 (counting the suspension of studies)

The suspension of studies is counted from the day when the student no longer has their student status. The law that regulates higher education and the Rules on Studies govern the cases of the loss of the status.

Article 76 (the suspension of studies for less than two years)

If the student discontinues their studies for less than two years, they are able to continue and complete the same study programme that was valid at the time of enrolment.

Article 77 (the suspension of studies for more than two years)

If more than two years have passed since the student discontinued their studies, they must submit a request to continue and complete their studies to the Academic Committee, with the intention of continuing and completing their studies. On the basis of a positive resolution, a contract for the continuation and completion of studies is concluded which determines the method of taking exams, preparing term papers and diploma thesis, as well as the deadline for completing their studies and means of payment in accordance with the faculty's price list.

If the study programme has changed during the suspension of studies, the Academic Committee from the previous paragraph may determine differentiation exams or other additional obligations as a condition for the continuation of studies.

If due to the progress of profession during a prolonged suspension of studies, knowledge that was required on an exam prior to the suspension of studies has become inadequate, the Academic Committee can, in addition to the differentiation obligations, determine that the student must repeat certain exams or other obligations that had already been completed before the suspension of studies. On the basis of payment of an individual exam equivalent to the credits, the student may take each individual exam three times.

Rapporteurs must submit a professional opinion on the candidate to the Habilitation Committee no later than thirty days after being appointed.

After receiving the rapporteurs' opinion, the Habilitation Committee must immediately form their own opinion for appointment to the title and submit their decision to the Senate of the faculty.

An administrative dispute can be initiated against the decision of the Senate.

In the case of the first appointment to the title or appointment to another title, the Habilitation Committee of the faculty submits all material to the Habilitation Committee of the university which decides on the application within a month.
